DETAILED ACTION

The preliminary amendment filed August 20, 2003 has been entered. Claims 1-31 were cancelled and Claims 32-54 were newly added.

The supplemental preliminary amendment filed October 6, 2003 has been entered. Claims 52-54 were amended.

Accordingly, Claims 32-54 are pending in the instant application.

Election/Restriction

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 32-48, drawn to a method of inducing an antigen specific immune response in a subject by administration of an expression plasmid encoding a hepatitis B virus (HBV) antigen, classified in class 514, subclass 44.
- II. Claims 49-54, drawn to a plasmid vector comprising a promoter selected from the group consisting of rous sarcoma virus (RSV) and cytomegalovirus (CMV) and a gene encoding a hepatitis B virus antigen, classified in class 435, subclass 320.1.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions I and II are related as product and process of use. The inventions can be shown to be distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) the process for using the product as claimed can be practiced with another materially different product or (2) the product as claimed can be used in a materially different process of using that product. See MPEP § 806.05(h). In the instant case, the product as claimed can be used in a materially different process of using that product. For example, the plasmid vector can be used to transfect cells in vitro and produce the encoded protein in cell culture. Thus, the method of the invention of Group I is patentably distinct from the composition of the invention of Group II.

Each of the inventions of Groups I and II requires consideration of separate issues relating to assessment of novelty, obviousness, utility, written description, and enablement. For example, the invention of Group I requires consideration of issues relating to the enablement of producing an antigen specific immune response in a subject, which is not required for examination of the invention of Group II. Furthermore, the searches for the inventions of Groups I and II are not coextensive. For example, a search for the plasmid vector of the invention of Group II would not necessarily identify art teaching the method of the invention of Group I. Additional searching would be required to cover the invention of Group I. Likewise, a search for the method of the invention of Group I would not necessarily identify art teaching the plasmid vector of the invention of Group II, particularly when the invention of Group I is not disclosed in the prior art. Additional searching would be required to cover the invention of Group II. Thus, search and examination of both of the instantly claimed inventions in a single patent application constitutes a serious burden on the Office.

With regard to burden, MPEP § 808.02 states that, to establish that there would be a serious burden on the examiner if restriction is not required,

“the examiner must show by appropriate explanation one of the following:

(A) Separate classification thereof: This shows that each invention has attained recognition in the art as a separate subject for inventive effort, and also a separate field of search. Patents need not be cited to show separate classification.” (emphasis original)

Thus, to establish that a serious burden exists, it is sufficient to show separate classification of the inventions. The instant inventions have separate classifications and require separate search.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification and recognized divergent subject matter and because the searches required for the separate inventions are not coextensive, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

The examiner has required restriction between product and process claims. Where applicant elects claims directed to the product, and a product claim is subsequently found allowable, withdrawn process claims that depend from or otherwise include all the limitations of the allowable product claim will be rejoined in accordance with the provisions of MPEP § 821.04. Process claims that depend from or otherwise include all the limitations of the patentable product will be entered as a matter of right if the amendment is presented prior to final rejection or allowance, whichever is earlier. Amendments submitted after final rejection are governed by 37 CFR 1.116; amendments submitted after allowance are governed by 37 CFR 1.312.

In the event of rejoinder, the requirement for restriction between the product claims and the rejoined process claims will be withdrawn, and the rejoined process claims will be fully examined for patentability in accordance with 37 CFR 1.104. Thus, to be allowable, the rejoined claims must meet all criteria for patentability including the requirements of 35 U.S.C. 101, 102, 103, and 112. Until an elected product claim is found allowable, an otherwise proper restriction requirement between product claims and process claims may be maintained. Withdrawn process claims that are not commensurate in scope with an allowed product claim will not be rejoined. See "Guidance on Treatment of Product and Process Claims in light of In re Ochiai, In re Brouwer and 35 U.S.C. § 103(b)," 1184 O.G. 86 (March 26, 1996). Additionally, in order to retain the right to rejoinder in accordance with the above policy, Applicant is advised that the process claims should be amended during prosecution either to maintain dependency on the product claims or to otherwise include the limitations of the product claims. Failure to do so may result in a loss of the right to rejoinder. Further, note that the prohibition against double patenting rejections of 35 U.S.C. 121 does not apply where the restriction requirement is withdrawn by the examiner before the patent issues. See MPEP § 804.01.

Art Unit: 1632

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a petition under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
